DHL to expand its business activities in Russia

USD 250 Million investment in the next four years

Deutsche Post World Net today announced its strategic initiatives for Russia. Through investments in excess of 250 Million USD within the next four years, the world’s leading logistics group, together with its express and logistics entity, DHL, will continue its positive development in the express and logistics business in Russia. Dr. Klaus Zumwinkel, Chief Executive Officer and Chairman of Deutsche Post World Net made this announcement at a press conference in Moscow.

"Russia is a very successful market for DHL and we see great prospects for the future," said Dr. Klaus Zumwinkel.

"Russia is an important part of our global growth strategy. The planned investments demonstrate our confidence in the high potential of the Russian economy and the express delivery and logistics market in particular".

The investments are focused on infrastructure and facilities, further expansion of the product portfolio, introduction of the latest technologies and training of our personnel. As part of the investment programme DHL Russia will expand its domestic road network, which includes the new purpose built cross-docking terminals in key locations that will connect the key economic centers of the country. All four DHL businesses in Russia, DHL Express, DHL Freight, DHL Global Forwarding and DHL Exel Supply Chain will participate in these investments.

For the first Quarter 2006, DHL Russia reports an increase in shipment volumes of more than 30%, compared to the same period in 2005. DHL in Russia sees exceptionally strong growth in Express, Air Freight and Supply Chain.

The Express business has shown double-digit growth both in domestic and international business. The international road and rail business of DHL Freight has doubled, and the domestic business has tripled.

Teachers may wish to do a matching exercise with this vocabulary or use the board to elicit.
Exercise 1

1. Why would DHL want to announce this?
To create good relations with investors, local press and government and to encourage Russian employees and stakeholders.

2. Which media would be interested in such an announcement? Financial media and local press

3. What other types of press release are there?
Answers include: Event press releases, crisis press releases, financial reporting, new product releases, new big-name customers and new partnerships.

Exercise 2

1. How much will DHL invest in Russia over the next 4 years? USD 250 million
2. How much did shipment volumes in Russia increase by? 30%

TIP: If you had just concentrated on finding the numbers you could have answered these questions more quickly.

Writing Your Own Press Release Step 2

Title

1. Does the title give you a clear idea of what the press release is about? Yes
2. Why do you think it doesn’t use any clever tricks to grab the reader’s attention?
Press releases are aimed at journalists, who are busy people and don’t have time to read every press release and so an easy to understand headline allows the journalist to quickly decide if this is newsworthy and worth reading.

Main News

1. Is the most important information in this part of the release? Yes
2. If the 1st three lines do not clearly state the most important information, will the journalist read any further? No

Quote

1. Is the quote from somebody very senior in the company? Yes
2. How many parts are there to this quote? 2
3. Why would a quote be split?
If a newspaper has space to fill then they will print the whole quote, but in a smaller article they only have space for 1 line or even just a few words. If you split the quote it is more likely that they will use it in the form you want.

Further Information

1. Will all newspapers have space to print all the information? No
2. Is this information as important as that at the top of the article? No

Background Company Information

1. Will everybody know who this company is? No
2. Will journalists find it useful to have company background and statistics available when writing an article? Yes
